COMMUNITY REPORT

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 2007 B3

Nathaniel J. Williams was awarded the Frederick Douglass Scholar in Residence position at Kutztown University in May.

As scholar in residence, Williams will hold a variety of discussion groups this summer, including lectures on cultural responsiveness in the classroom, civil rights, and the Underground Railroad. He will also write an article on cultural diversity for inclusion in a journal.

Williams

Williams is president and chief executive officer of Bethlehem-based Human Works Affiliates, Inc., a cluster of corporations specializing in human services since 1993.

He holds a master's degree in human services from Lincoln University of Pennsylvania and a master's in public administration from Cheyney University.
